Drivers of Local Supply and Demand...

Local Economic Outlook	Austin	U.S.
12-month Job Change (Sep)	17,100	Not Comparable	Employment has held up and is on an upward trend
12-month Job Change (Aug)	14,000	Not Comparable
36-month Job Change (Sep)	7,500	Not Comparable	Unemployment has risen since the same period last year, but Austin's labor market has been more resilient than the national average
Current Unemployment Rate (Sep)	7.4%	9.1%
Year-ago Unemployment Rate	7.0%	9.6%	Local employment growth is strong compared to other markets
1-year (12 month) Job Growth Rate	2.2%	0.8%

Share of Total Employment by Industry

12-month Employment Change by Industry in the Austin-Round Rock Area (Sep - 2011)

Goods Producing	NA	Information	-300
Natural Resources/Mining/Construction	2,500	Financial Activities	800
Natural Resources and Mining	NA	Prof. & Business Services	100
Construction	NA	Educ. & Health Services	3,100
Manufacturing	1,300	Leisure & Hospitality	4,500
Service Providing Excluding Government	NA	Other Services	1,100
Trade/Transportation/Utilities	2,100	Government	1,900

State Economic Activity Index	Texas	U.S.
12-month change (2011 - Sep)	3.2%	2.8%	The economy of Texas has outpaced the rest of the nation and improved modestly from last month's 2.96% change
36-month change (2011 - Sep)	-4.3%	-2.6%

New Housing Construction

Local Fundamentals	Austin	U.S.
12-month Sum of 1-unit Building Permits through Sep 2011	5,965	not comparable	The current level of construction is 46.4% below the long-term average
8-year average for 12-month Sum of 1-Unit Building Permits	11,138	not comparable	Reduced construction will limit new supply to the market, allowing demand to catch up with the inventory more quickly
Single-Family Housing Permits (Sep 2011) 12-month sum vs. a year ago	-4.8%	-10.3%	Construction is down from last year, but appears to have bottomed.

While new construction is the traditional driver of supply in real estate, foreclosures now have a strong impact on inventories, particularly at the local level. Rising inventories, through construction or foreclosure, place downward pressure on the median home prices.

Foreclosures by Type

Monthly Market Data - August 2011	Austin	U.S.
Market Share: Prime (blue), Alt-A (green), and Subprime (red)			Suprime mortgages make up a larger than average share of the Austin market, while prime foreclosures are in decline
PRIME: Foreclosure + REO Rate			The local prime rate fell modestly from March of last year Compared to the national average, today's local prime rate is low
SUBPRIME: Foreclosure + REO Rate			The subprime foreclosure rate jumped compared to March of last year Locally, today's foreclosure rate is low relative to the national average
ALT-A: Foreclosure + REO Rate			The local alt-A rate eased slightly relative to March of last year The August rate for Austin is low compared to the national average

The "foreclosure + REO rate" is the number of mortgages, by metro area, that are either in the foreclosure process or have completed the foreclosure process and are owned by banks divided by the total number of mortgages for that area.

The Mortgage Market

After a soft second quarter, the economy was shocked by three events that came together nearly within the same week; a deadlock in Congress and near miss on the budget extension, renewed concerns about the Greek debt crisis impacting the US, and a sharp, downward revision to 1st and 2nd quarter GDP estimates. The result was a 15% or more correction in the equity indexes, which sent investors into US Treasuries seeking a risk free asset. The yield on the 10-year Treasury reached near record lows and the 30-year FRM followed suit, slipping under 4% multiple times. However, the gap between the 10-year Treasury and the 30-year fixed opened up as the risk to MBS investors of increased refinancing rose, creating resistance for falling mortgage rates. Fuel prices eased in the 3rd quarter and are likely to do so through the fall. At the same time there is little core inflation pressure, which combined with the Federal Reserve's "operation twist" that is intended to flatten the yield curve putting downward pressure on long-term rates, should sustain a near-record low mortgage rate environment through the fall.

A Closer Look...Local Rental Vacancy Rates

Rental Vacancy Rate	Texas	U.S.
Ratio for 2010	11.8%	10.2%	Texas's rental vacancy rate fell in recent years, but was above the national average in 2010.
Ratio for 2011 Q3	6.1%	9.8%
Historical Average	9.3%	8.6%

Instead of falling after the end of the housing market boom, the national rental vacancy rate peaked at 11.1% in the 3rd quarter of 2010. Job losses, stagnant incomes, and credit issues forced some families to double-up and many young adults to move back in with their parents. The stabilization of the national economy in 2010 and subsequent three quarters of job creation has helped to improve the rental market pushing the rental vacancy rate down to 9.8% in the 3rd quarter of 2011. In addition, many would-be buyers have been forced to rent due to a sharp increase in credit and downpayment requirements in recent years. Rent growth was strong in the first 3 quarter of 2011 and is expected to grow with increases of 3.2% and 3.5% in 2012 and 2013, respectively. Locally, there was a decline in the rental vacancy rate for Texas from its recent peak of 14.8% in 2003 to 11.8% in 2010.
